Jim Channon Slated as Guest on Coast to Coast AM with George Knapp

Jim Channon is the scheduled guest for Sunday, October 25, 2009 on Coast to Coast AM. George Knapp will be hosting. (A listing of affiliates and times can be found on the Coast to Coast AM website.)

Jim Channon is the Commander of the First Earth Battalion, which is mirrored darkly in the comedy "The Men Who Stare at Goats", set to open November 6, 2009. The Commander is also an Environmental Steward, Social Architect and Global Shaman, ready to discuss with George Knapp the 12 breakthroughs of the next decade that will guide our planet toward a brighter future, as well as how to build Global Social Intelligence.

12 Breakthroughs of the Next Decade

Jim Channon expressed his ideas and ideals for a new army of soldiers in "Evolutionary Tactics", published by the Army in 1978. This field manual expresses the warrior monk archetype through illustrations of advanced human performance skills. "The goal is to create combatants with a more advanced understanding of threats, allow for peaceful incursions into dangerous areas, and to spare the lives of soldiers and civilians ." These warrior monks would be dedicated, first and foremost, to people and planet. The manual has been made available in a downloadable format, as the original hard copies have become a rare find.

The First Earth Battalion has "acted like a think-tank" with dozens of volunteer military thinkers actively involved in advancing human performance solutions for soldiers planet-wide. In 2008 Jim Channon confirmed four missions of the proto-mythical FEB. He stressed that the "main reason the unit exists is to profess the positive visions for the future for Armed Forces of the Planet and those independent global members who aspire to the warrior monk archetype." He reviewed the following mission elements: Be all you can be; create a paradise on planet Earth; recover the biosphere; and global public unity.
